A photograph of two men of the Mossos people taken at Chiangdao in northern Thailand by Rodolphe de Schauensee in 1932. Mr. de Schauensee noted that these men were expert shots with the crossbow and were able to secure a number of birds for him which were shot with small bamboo arrows as indicated in the photograph. Mr. and Mrs. de Schauensee have donated a large photographic collection of considerable ethnographic significance to the Museum's Archives.
