

Welcome to the Museum of Me!

A museum exhibit displays a group of objects together to help tell a story. These stories can be about people, places, events, or other themes. At the Penn Museum, we help to tell stories about ancient and modern people who lived around the world.

1) What things would you put in a museum exhibit that tells the story of YOU?

Some ideas include:

- A picture of you in your favorite outfit
- A happy memory, like a fun trip you took or a special holiday celebration
- Your favorite toy or game
- Music that makes you dance
- What else is special about you?

2) Use the exhibit case on Page 2 as a guide to organize your objects. You can also use a blank piece of paper or cardboard.

3) Draw pictures of objects that represent YOU. You can also cut and paste pictures from magazines. Make sure to label what they are or what they mean to you!

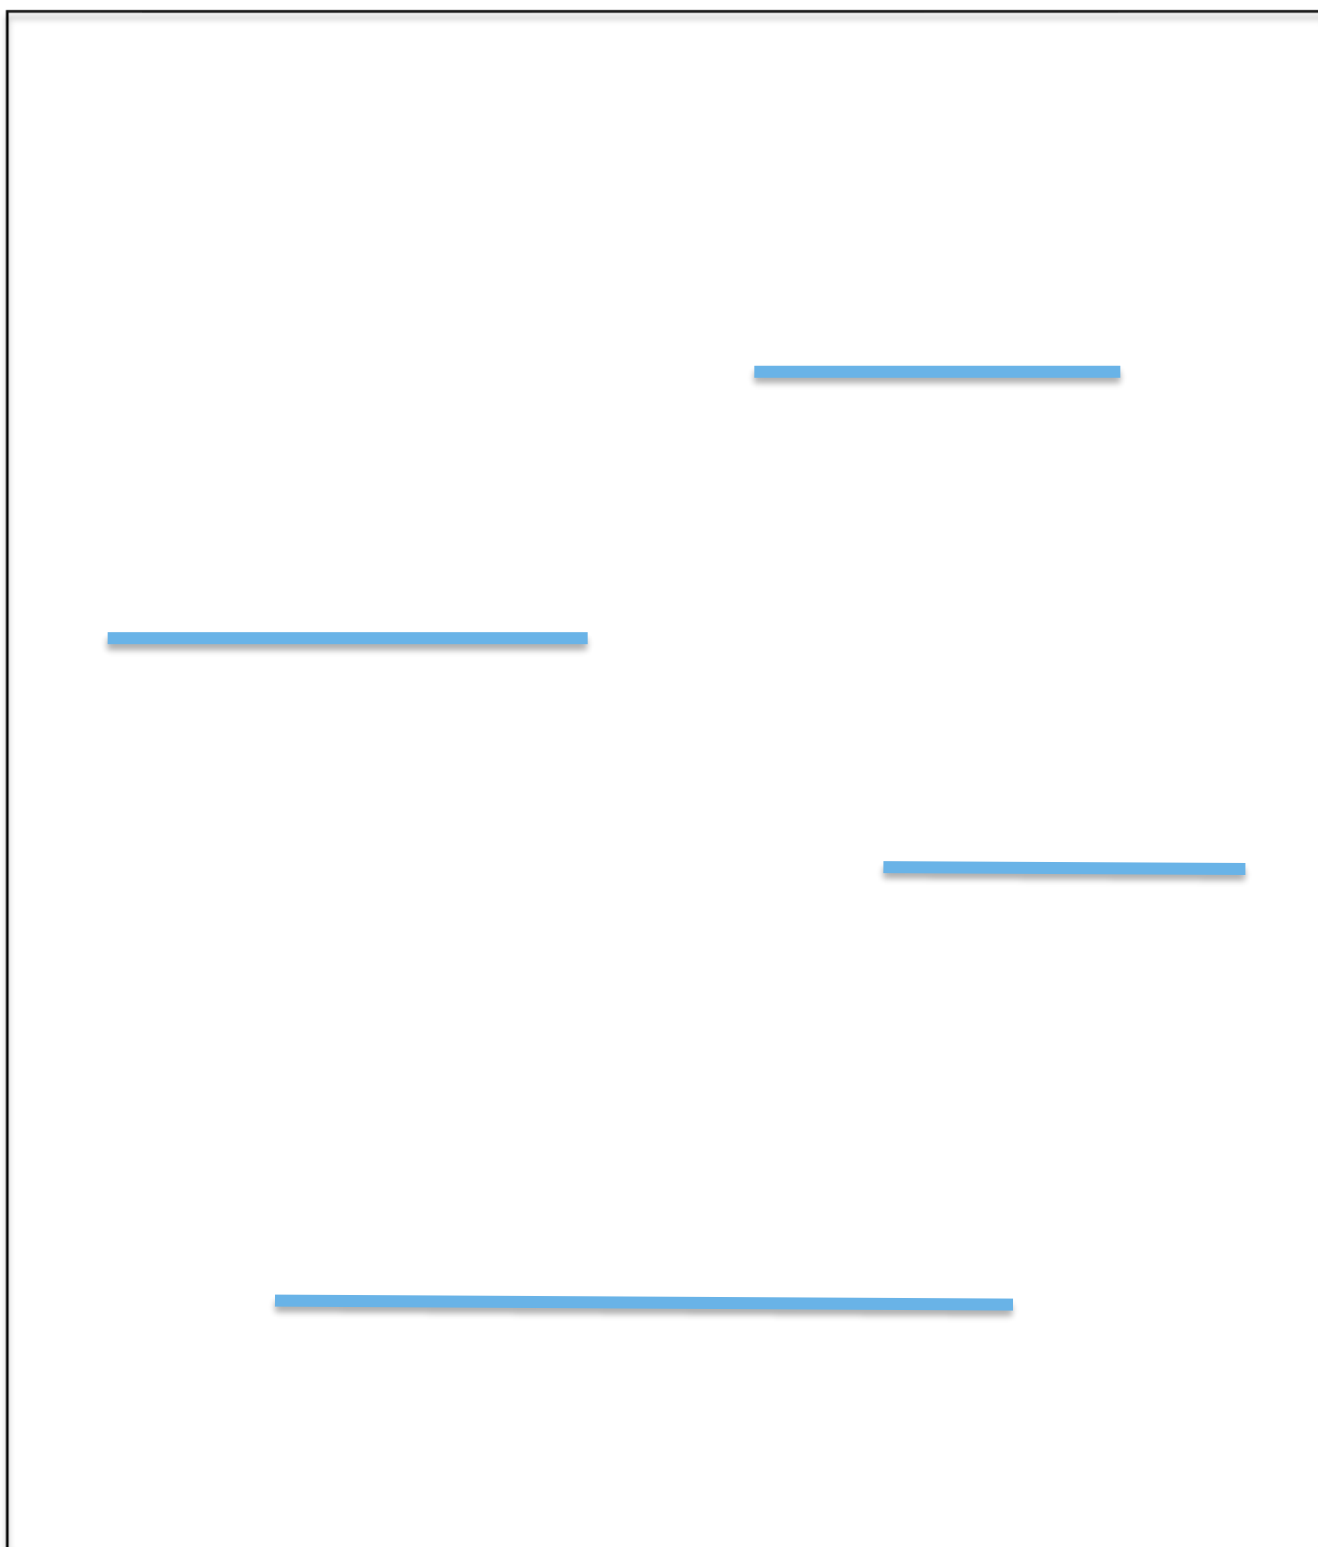

4) Create a title for your exhibit, like "All About (Your Name)"

Extension: Pick out objects found around your home that represent YOU.

Arrange them on a table or special shelf for all to see. Ask the people in your house to visit your Museum of Me!

Welcome to the Museum of Me!

What objects help to tell your story? Draw the objects in the exhibit case, above. Make sure to label what they are or what they mean to you!